

FREEDOM'S GIFT

Real freedom is something we are all BORN with. It has to do with our character and authentic sense of being. To obtain it is not simple or easy because it is not anything tangible. At least as we believe and know it and have been taught. It cannot be owned, bought or sold. It cannot be given to a person by another one, group, organization, government or country. It cannot be legislated or put into law. Not real freedom. Real freedom takes a CONSCIOUS effort; willfully we might say, of working at it day-by-day, moment by moment to awaken to it. It is a state of GRACE, EMPOWERMENT, HARMONY and JOY that transcends the archaic messages given to us by culture, society and those passed on through the generations.

To have real freedom and to know its depth requires that we be willing to know ourselves nakedly and as fully as possible. To understand each and every dimension of our lives be it personal, social, professional or global. We also have to know where we stand spiritually as well. But, understanding that our spirituality doesn't require that we adhere to any one particular faith or belief. As all beliefs, methods and systems are born and evolve through spirit.

What is even more important than the rest is letting go of the notion that we are free.

FREEDOM is not a fixed or static form or condition. Indeed, as many have taught and practiced throughout time. It is an evolving process and part of the SACREDNESS of life.

This being the most cherished gift of our existence. But, we must be mindful that because it is a gift that it must be shared. Only then can it work in our lives. Until this has happened no one is free and then we all share in the SLAVERY.
